Hanna provides counsel to both domestic and international clients on all matters relating to employment and labour law. Her expertise includes a wide range of focus areas, including executive employment agreements and their termination, transactional employment law, and general employment law advice. Hanna has particular experience in advising clients on matters concerning business immigration, employee privacy, collective terminations of employment, and remote work arrangements.

Hanna joined Borenius as an Associate in April 2022, having previously worked as a trainee on the firm's Employment team. During her studies, Hanna also gained experience by completing traineeships at other Finnish law firms.
